

Curtis Eugene Knight

May 27, 2016

On May 27, 2016, Curtis Eugene Knight, son of Gaither and Eugene Knight, passed away peacefully at Baptist Memorial Hospital, Oxford

A native of Oxford, Curtis graduated from College Hill Academy in May 1975. After graduation, Curtis continued his education at Atlanta School of Design. Curtis began his career as an interior designer in New York City, interning with a very well known designer. From there, he went to Houston, Texas to continue his career.

After several years, Curtis returned to Oxford because he wanted to be “A big fish in a little sea” rather than “A little fish in a big sea”! Upon returning to Oxford, Curtis began a long, fruitful designing career by opening Oxford Decorating Company where he brought in Terry Lytal, another accomplished designer. When Curtis and Terry made the decision to close Oxford Decorating Company, Curtis went to work for Jean Chandler selling designer fabrics and was instrumental in helping develop an interior design firm and retail store. In the 1990’s, Curtis opened Inside Oxford, a favorite of people from Oxford and out-of-towners. Many years later, Curtis and Terry closed Inside Oxford and opened Oxford Consignors on University Avenue.

Through the years, Curtis Knight Design decorated and designed hundreds of homes , locally, nationally and internationally. Curtis was published in periodicals throughout the country.

In 2010, Curtis decided to take on his lifelong dream of being a long haul truck driver. He traveled many thousands of miles enjoying the dream. He continued doing so until a previous client persuaded him to decorate her home. The truck driving business was history!

On December 12, 2015, Curtis married his longtime partner of thirty seven years, Terry Lytal. As a wedding gift to one another, they started Oxford Cares where they were instrumental in collecting toys, clothes and food for children and families who would have no Christmas. When devastating tornadoes struck Holly Springs, MS on December 24, 2015, Curtis and Terry rose to the occasion giving of themselves by collecting food, toys, water, clothing and supplies for the families most affected by the storms. Curtis believed in helping anyone in need and never wanted credit for doing so. He has spent the last years of his life doing what he loved most, designing and decorating for clients, but more importantly, lifelong friends.

A celebration of Curtis' life will be held Sunday, May 29, 2016, 2:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m. at Coleman Funeral Home, 601 Commerce Parkway, Oxford, MS. Coleman Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Curtis is survived by his spouse, Terry Lytal and his sister, Ann Knight, along with many nieces, nephews, in-laws and lifelong friends.

In lieu of flowers and food, please make donations to the Mississippi Children's Home, P.O. Box 1078, Jackson, MS 39215

“ Curtis Knight, You will be greatly missed my friend. You were one phenomenal individual. You did what was in your heart and followed your dreams to the point that you probably surprised yourself as to what you were capable of. You are one of the funniest, yet most passionate individuals that I have ever met. You have done so much for so many people, and I feel certain that you will continue to do so with the legacy and friends that you leave behind to continue your great works. You have done so much for me and my family without ever even knowing it. YOU have instilled more confidence in my wife than you will ever know. You gave her the chance and opportunity to do work for you, and yes you were impressed by her work, but you did more for her than you thought. You sir, made her who she is today. As I sit here writing this, I can't help but think about the morning, just a few weeks ago, that you walked through my kitchen and into the living room to look at a piece of furniture that was ready for delivery while I sat at the bar working on the computer. You walked by and were extremely startled that I was at home at that time of morning. You said jokingly, "Your not supposed to be here....you about gave me a heart attack...." I replied, "Nothing like a mild heart attack to get the day started...(as we all joked in a very laughing matter!)" I had no idea that our casual joking would end up being what caused the beginning of your legacy!!! I keep telling myself that it was in no way time for you to become a legacy, but i reassure myself that the Good Lord has a plan for us all and it was your time to carry out his plan. You sir will be greatly missed by our family as well as many other families across this Great Nation. I pray for Terry, Ann, and the rest of your extended family.

“ Our lives will forever be darker because your light is gone. Your wit and sense of humor will never be forgotten. I have never met one funnier than you. I will miss you at every Lytal get-together but will cherish all of the fun we had. My heart sinks for Terry because there was never one without the other. My thoughts will always be with him. You taught us all to live unabashedly and inspired us with your talent and love for those less fortunate. I think I will always look for your face and will feel your loss all too often. I have a picture from our trip to St. Francisville where you walked ahead of me one morning. I'll try to remind everyone that you're not too far just a few steps ahead...weren't you always anyway? I love you.

“ *Terry and Ann..as I sit here and type this I looked up at his picture and I thought..this can't be right!!! I knew after I heard this am why it has been so dark and droopy all day..everybody is crying. Curtis was certainly a light that stayed lit at all times and I know this light will stay in your hearts. May God wrap you both in His loving arms, give you peace, comfort and support. To all the other family I don't know..I am so very sorry.
Thinking of you two and all the family,
