Oh Dear God please hold my friend in your arms today and all the days to come and comfort her soul Father. I pray Lord you lift her sweet arms up so she will not as much as strike her foot against a stone. Allow her Lord to look at your beauty and still be in awe. Dear God surround her in your love. You have many wonders and blessings in the days to come for her Father. Comfort her sweet broken heart and wounded soul Lord as only you, her savior can.

In Christ Jesus name I pray.

*I love you Robin,

“ I met David in the army. We were stationed in Frankfurt, Germany. We went for some long walks with Steve another friend at the time and we read from the Bible in their off base apartment. We were all searching for meaning and finding it through Christ. Even though we went our separate ways there was always a bond between us and even now as David has passed on I still feel we will be forever connected by our brotherhood in Christ. Sincerely, Alan Cayton

“ David loved God and his family. He was my best friend, and we hiked a lot of miles in Arkansas and Virginia, sharing a lot about our lives. Robin, Christi and Alex will be in our prayers as you grieve. Soli Deo Gloria!

“ To the Minyards: My heart is broken right now for your loss, but know that you are in my thoughts and prayers this whole time. I know that you probably have lots of questions and lots of doubts, but those can be holy at a time like this. God loves each you and he is not done with your family. My heart breaks for you, but I know that one day all this pain and suffering will be over and you will have a stronger faith and a great testimony to share with others. God moves in mysterious ways. He has moved and will continue to move in your family. I love each of you and my heart breaks for each of you.

“ Over the past several years, I've had the opportunity to get to know David. I witnessed, firsthand, his quest for knowledge, his kindness, and his absolute and complete love of his family. I pray, God bring you and your family peace.
