“ My cousin Ina and I where close when we where young. After I got married she would bring her children over to see me all the time. Our kids would play while we sit and laughed. She had a hard time in life. For years we would call and talk. She had to make a lot of hard decisions in her life but I remember a sweet little girl that was always so nice to me Sandy Breeze

Ina lived with me in the same apartment complex. She went to different places with me around town. She was very sweet to me. We both liked to crochet. She complimented me about my crocheting. And after I moved out of town she sent a nice letter in the mail.
