

James Kendall Page

December 29, 1957 - May 16, 2025

Coleman Funeral Home of Oxford

James Kendall Page, 67, of Oxford, Mississippi passed away on Friday, May 16, 2025, at Baptist Memorial Hospital.

The family has elected not to host any services and will mourn his passing privately, leaning on one another for support.

James Kendall Page, better known as Kendall to his family and friends, was welcomed into this world on December 29, 1957, in Mena, Arkansas as one of the children born to Billy E Page and Bernice Hilton Nicholas.

Kendall dedicated his professional life to serving others as a Licensed Practical Nurse at the State Veterans Home in Oxford, Mississippi, until his health declined. Kendall was a proud supporter of Ole Miss Athletics. Whether cheering on the Rebels at Vaught-Hemingway Stadium or watching games with friends and family, Kendall's passion for his team was infectious. Kendall attended Adoni Church, where he found strength in his faith and community.

He leaves behind a loving family to continue walking down the path of life in his absence; beloved daughter, Meena Page of Olive Branch, Mississippi; father, Billy E. Page of Oxford, Mississippi; mother, Bernice Hilton Nicholas of Oxford, Mississippi; three brothers and one sister; and a host of beloved extended family members.

The staff at Coleman Funeral Home of Oxford is honored to serve the family during this challenging season of life. Condolences may be expressed online on his Tribute wall at www.colemanfuneralhomeox.com

“ Kendall and I once skipped school while in junior high. We sat in his bedroom playing penny anti poker until his mom made a surprise visit home. I hid in the closet and Kendall said nothing. Then the multiple coins in my pocket shifted and she had caught me. She said “come out Mark, I know you’re in there. Kendall and I were always pulling stupid but fun stunts. Always had a good laugh afterward. Thanks for all the memories brother Kendall. Love you and God’s Speed!
