“ When I think of Nikki I think of the following adjectives: vivacious, spunky, caring, compassionate, funny as heck, stubborn, strong willed, loyal, a 5’3” package of dynamite. But mostly I think of her as a gift. Her friendship in my life has been a gift. Our friends should be trusted companion who know us, accept us for who we truly are, and love us no matter what. For me this was Nikki.

John 15:12-13 says the following “My command is this: love each other as I have loved you. Greater love has no one than this, to lay down one’s life for one’s friend.” Often this verse is used as the services of police officers or firefighters, but to me this describes the type of friend Nikki was to me and I am sure several others. She would stop whatever she was doing, disrupt her life, to be there for others. She was willing to “lay down” her life for the lives of those important to her. During one of the most challenging times in my life she did just that.

She was Gregg’s partner on the ambulance for several years, and she was the best “work wife” a real wife could have asked for.

While in the past few years Nikki and I did not spend as much time together as we used to. Life happened. We would call each other and catch up always promising we would get together soon. I was blessed to be able to tell her just how much I loved her and how grateful I was for her friendship.

Many of you might be wondering what now? Before my mom passed she told people this, Love my kids. Step in when asked, show up, and be ready to listen when they need to talk. Do the same for my kids that you would want for someone to do for your kids. Same for Mike. Now is the time to honor the friendship we have had with Nikki by loving those she loved the most.
