“ I knew Tommy since I was around 7 years old, the first time i saw him, maybe in the late 80s or early 90s, he was in his Army uniform at the old store at Lees Crossing with his dad, he had just returned from Germany I believe. He was a neighbor and friend. By the time I was 15 I started helping him and Mr Tom as a survey helper. Even though I was a young kid he would always try to teach me things, and I really looked up to him. He was never too busy to hang out with a young kid and try to help me work on my beat up vehicles. I never remember him getting angry at anyone. He would always try and make other people happy. He would always comment that someone was a "salt of the earth" person. Well i guess it takes one to know one. I cant imagine the pain and sorrow that Tommy and his family have gone through these past few months. We will keep your family in our prayers.
