“ Its been a month sense you lost your battle and become a guardian angel. What I would give to have he back and be pain and cancer free. I miss you as much today as I did that day. I would love to her you shake her glass needing a refill. Or fussing at me to get off my phone or quit working in my word find book.And knocking on the wall letting me know you needed something. To be able to give you a kiss on the check and telling you I love you. That I wish I could take your place and take it all away from you. I miss you and love you so much.
