“ There should be no parent that should have to outlive their children- yet Mary did for Jesus and it seems it continues. A poem shared with me a long time ago Footprints- "When you only see one set of footprints that is when God is carrying you." Know that His loving arms are around you now and will help you through. You and the family are in my thought and prayers. Terri

“ Regina, my prayers and thoughts are with and for you. There are no words to truly comfort you at this time. Only those who have experienced the lost of a child can really know your pain. God promised to wipe every tear away. He states He feels our pain and He is always with us. He loves you. When your pain is so great and your heart is heavy simply call on Him to comfort you and He will.

“ I don't have just one memory, everyday is a memory. We were always together and, you can bet your bottom dollar, it was never a dull moment. We were family, best friends: he was my brother. Weso, I can't imagine not seeing you every morning and every night. I love you more than words could ever describe and I will forever be thankful for the joy you brought to my life. Life may never be the same after losing you, but I promise, your smile and wonderful personality will live on in my heart forever. I love you, brother. Until next time.. Love, your TT

“ I remember being in 1st grade and alone on the school bus. Wesley was the first kind kid to speak to me. Everyday after that Wesley and I shared a seat on the bus until 4th or so grade. In 2nd grade he was brave enough to come to my birthday party and stay the night with a house full of girls. I didn't know the older Wesley but I'll never forget the younger one I knew best. My thoughts are with his family and closest friends.
